MARTIN OWENS.

Bred from the Best Horses.

It is one of the laws of trade to base the value upon the improvement of the breed—to first ascertain the value of the improvement and then add so much extra to the cost of production. To sum up the profit of breeding the rule is, breed from the best; they will pay the best. There is always a demand at high prices for the best that the market affords. They will command the market and fix the price. Why does one horse sell for $100 and another for $1,000 in the same market? Because one is better bred than the other. The high-bred has inherited more style and stamina than the low-bred. The well-bred have an acquired value from family heritage that swells their price above the cost of production. If we breed from the best specimens of the best families, their improved value will rise far above their natural value or cost of production. Let us breed from the best specimens of their class that we may increase their numbers.—[National Live Stock Journal.]

ADVENTURES OF AN ACTOR.

What queer things happen in Boston! The Post tells of a young stock actor who did something more than average merit, but had no expectation of a summons before the curtain. The minute the drop fell he rushed to his dressing-room to make a quick change of costume. The call becoming imperative, the stage manager hastened to summon him, and found him with his trousers off. In frantic haste his clothes were hurried upon him, and half bewildered he was ushered before the curtain. Following the hearty applause he received, came a burst of laughter. He retired and found that in the confusion his trousers had been put on so that when he faced the audience they didn't.

Annie C. Martin, Louisville, says: "I have tried Brown's Iron Bitters for nervousness and general debility; it is a wonderful medicine."

Big Feet.

The subject of large feet was under discussion, when Gen. Rapmore, a gentleman who came to Arkansas as a carpet-bagger, but who squandered his money and became a democrat, remarked:

"I think that the largest foot I ever saw was the property of a man named Ecklemon. His feet were so large that during wet weather the ladies used to request him to walk across the street so they could walk over in his tracks before the mud ran together."

No one disputed this assertion, for the old general is known to be a truthful man, but old Commodore Seckle, whose title was won on a flat-boat, and took a pride in everything he did, remarked:

"Yes, I knowed that fellow, and he wore a pair of boots that belonged to Nick Seckle when Nick was a boy. But poor Nick's feet outgrew the boots, and he had to get a bigger pair. That fellow had a monstrous foot, the biggest I ever saw."

"How large?" asked the General.

"Give us some idea of its size."

"I don't know that I can, but I'll tell you what a fact. His foot was so big that—well, you've heard the old story of the fellow who used the forks of the road for a boot-jack? Yes, well, Nick tried it and split the road so far that the geography of the neighborhood was changed.—[Arkansas Traveler.]

AN ARKANSAS GIRL WITH THREE TONGUES.

There is a little girl in the city, at Branner's, who has three tongues. This seems improbable, but your correspondent saw her this morning, so is able to testify to the truth of the assertion. The father, James W. Blackwell, was married to Martha E. Saffel, in Lawrence county, Ark., in 1879, and on the 24th of January, 1880, their first child, the little girl in question, was born. It was a fine, healthy child, and nothing peculiar was noticed about her until about two weeks after she was born, when as she was crying one day, her mother noticed she cried differently from other children. Upon examination of her mouth, to the great astonishment of her parents, the little girl was discovered to have three tongues instead of one.—[Helena Letter.]

A stronger temperance lecture will never be preached than that which an unfortunate woman of Cape Girardeau, Mo., recently delivered before her husband in a bar-room. Setting a covered dish which she had brought with her upon the table, she said: "Presuming, husband, that you are too busy to come home to dinner, I've brought you yours," and departed. With a forced laugh he invited his friends to dine with him, but on removing the cover from the dish, found only a slip of paper on which was written: "I hope you will enjoy your meal; it is the same your family have at home."

ANECDOTE OF MR. LINCOLN.

"Old Abe" once replied to a question, early in the war, as to how the Union reverses affected him, by saying: "I feel very much like a great stalwart Illinois neighbor of mine, who was out logging in his bare feet. A log rolled over and crushed one of his big toes before he could escape. All drawn with pain, he replied to a question of how he was, with: 'Well, I'm too big to cry, but it hurts too damn bad to laugh.'"

When it comes to a question of beauty, women are not a mutual admiration society.

THE RAILROAD TO HEAVEN.

[BY REQUEST.]

The road to heaven by Christ was made, With heavenly truth the rails were laid, From earth to Heaven the line extends, To life eternal, where it ends.

Repentance is the station then, Where passengers are taken in, No fare for them is there to pay, For Jesus is himself the way.

The Bible is the engineer, It points the way to Heaven so clear; Through tunnel dark and dreary here, It does the way to glory steer.

God's love the fire, his truth the steam, Which drives the engine and the train; All you who would glory ride, Must come to Christ, in him abide.

Come then, dear children, now's the time! At any station on the line If you repent and turn from sin, The train will stop and take you in.

An Undiscovered Sense.

In a certain printing-office in this city there is a compositor who is deaf and dumb. In the same printing-office there are two other compositors who are endowed with the power of evolving tremendous sneezes when the spirit tickles their noses. One of them is a little short, chubby fellow with a round red face. The grandeur of his sneeze is so utterly disproportionate to the diminutive size of his body that his fellow-printers refer to it as "a wrong-font sneeze." The other is a tall, rawboned Yankee who sneezes in the good old down East fashion. Neither of the compositors who sneezes works in the same alley with the compositor who is deaf and dumb and the cases between them are so arranged that he can not see either of them. Nevertheless when either of them sneezes he always jumps as though a cannon-ball were fired into his ear. Of course he can not hear the noise. The question for the scientist is, How does he know just when to jump?

A WISE DECISION: PRIZES IN TEA PACKAGES.

At Buffalo, N. Y., the District Attorney has decided that the Importers' Tea Company, a concern which does business there, by selling tea and coffee in packages that contain prizes, is a lottery. Their mode of operation is to sell a package for $1, guaranteeing a prize, which is generally a piece of jewelry, and if the purchaser wants another chance, he returns the first package and by paying fifty cents more takes another package. A civil suit for $30,000 has been begun against the company, and it is stated that the authorities are also preparing to begin criminal proceedings against the concern. It is estimated that in about ten days they have cleared from $40,000 to $50,000 by the scheme.

HIS LORDSHIP DECLINED.

"Like many other professional 'wits,' Sergeant Ballantine never takes a joke against himself kindly. On one occasion he had a lady client with the peculiar name of Tickle, for whom he appeared before the late Baron Martin in a breach of promise case. A point of law arose, and Mr. Ballantine began an address to the Judge in these words: 'Tickle, my client, my Lord—' Here he was interrupted by her lordship's saying: 'Tickle her yourself, my learned brother.' Everybody in the court roared with laughter, except Mr. Ballantine, who looked glum and was very grumpy throughout the day.—[Bench and Bar.]

The modern guillotine is placed on the ground.

The condemned is seized and pushed against an upright board which falls forward, pivoting under his weight, and brings him in a horizontal position with his neck between the grooves above which the knife is suspended. The executioner touches a spring, the knife flashes as it falls and all is over. This is far better than the horrible and barbarous bungling which occurs at hangings here. The Danish Prime Minister was to introduce a bill this session substituting the guillotine for the method now in vogue in consequence of a horrid scene at a recent execution.

Young men should take warning from the fate of Prince Charles of Prussia. He habitually smoked from twenty to twenty-five Havana cigars a day and was cut off at the immature age of eighty-three. Had he confined himself to ten or sixteen daily he might have lived to a respectable age, but his excess reduced his lease upon life so that he only reached the years of an octogenarian.

Charles Briddy, catcher of the Cleveland nine, at home in Lansingburg, N. Y., asserts that he is the seventh son of a seventh son and intends to heal the sick after receiving instructions from Andy Coran, spike-maker, who has abandoned that business to heal the lame, blind, deaf and dumb, being the seventh son of a seventh son.

When Men Mean It.

A maiden friend of mine, who has been wooed eleven times, and knows a good deal about it, assures me that the only attentions to be taken notice of, and relied upon, are those that touch the pocket. "When your Platonic friend," she says, "begins to offer gifts, costly according to his means, depend upon it the affair has become a business with him as well as with you." The American missionary, Judson, possessed a valuable watch, which he bestowed in succession before marriage upon each of his three wives; when he offered it to the third object of his affections, he stated that it had the desirable property of always returning to him, bringing the beloved wearer with it. Be sure the wise and prudent man never would have parted with his watch, unless he was firmly persuaded that he was making a good investment, safe to bring him in large and clear returns. When a costly offering is laid upon the shrine, the offering means worship.

Will Alcohol Cure Catarrh?

Rev. Wm. H. Bergfels, of Newark, thinks he has discovered a simple and certain cure for catarrh which has long baffled medical science. Mr. Bergfels was pastor of the Baptist church at Lyons Farms, but in 1872 was compelled to give up preaching on account of a severe catarrhal affection. He is a member of the New York Nickel Plating Company, and one evening after using in his business a lacquer composed partly of alcohol, he found that his disease was not so bad. He then put alcohol into an inhaler and breathed the vapor arising from it. He did this for a month, night and morning, and was greatly relieved. A few months later he was cured, and is again pastor of the Lyons Farm church. His family find that alcohol also prevents colds. Mr. Bergfels desires to have the cause of his cure made known.—[N. Y. Sun.]

PREMATURE.—A bridal couple got on the train at Kemptville the other day.

The groom was a strapping fellow, and squeezed the bride into a seat next the window. Some of the train hands, who were posted, put the newboy up to bringing in a box of baby rattles, and offering the embarrassed couple their choice for five cts. All sorts of excuses were offered by the man as reasons for not buying. Finally he made a clean breast of the situation with: "See here, young feller, I've only been married a little over fifteen minutes. Give us a rest. We don't want to set up house keeping right here in the car. Keep your tinware and I'll be along next year. If the returns are satisfactory, I'll buy your whole caboodle."

The course of true love: Bertha and Gontran adore each other, but their stern parents are inexorably opposed to the union of the young people. The young people consequently are in despair. "There is only one thing left to us," says Bertha, pale, but resolute: "And that is—'Death!' 'Death!' But, dearest, suicide is a crime under the new code." "I know it is, but I have thought of a plan to get around that. First you must kill me—" "Kill you, my darling?" "And then I will kill you!"—[French Fun.]

The Scientific American says:

"The increasing use of cold storage for perishable food stuffs, which are apt to be scarce at certain seasons, is one of the characteristics of the time. Last summer when fresh eggs were plentiful and cheap, a gentleman in Chenango county, N. Y., stored in a mammoth cooler, some five thousand barrels of eggs. Now they sell in this city as 'fresh laid' eggs at a large profit."

The Princess Louise has been styled the beauty of the British royal family, but that is only by comparison, for good looks are scarce among them. A writer who saw her at Richmond describes her as having regular features, an agreeable expression, fair skin, excellent figure and a smile that lights up an otherwise heavy face.

A TRUE DEFINITION OF LUCK.

"Is there such a thing as luck?" asks a correspondent. There is. For instance, if you go home at two o'clock in the morning, after promising your wife to be in early, and find her asleep, that's luck, but it isn't to be depended on.—[Richmond Star.]

THE NEW GAG:—"Arabi has gone to sea, I hear."

"What sea?" "Why, Ceylon." Then they all go out to see a man.—[New York Commercial Advertiser.]

Jno. Bent, Louisville, Ky., says: "I have found no remedy that gives greater relief for general debility than Brown's Iron Bitters."

The emphatic statement of Senator Beck that he would rather see his boys breaking stone on the highway than seeking clerkships at Washington is worthy of careful consideration by young men who believe the department clerks have a rosy time. Those who have good positions and draw large salaries manage to live well till thrown out of office. Then many of them become a burden to themselves and their friends. They drift into that class of politicians who have to be taken care of by the party.

SNUFF-DIPPING.

"A practice common among the lower class of women in the Southern States of collecting a quantity of snuff upon a sort of brush made by separating the fibers of one end of a small piece of wood and rubbing the teeth and gums with it." The above is the definition given by Webster. We hope none of our lady readers are guilty of the filthy habit.

Swinburne sings:

"I hid my head in a nest of roses." Did you, Algeon, did you? That was wise in you to hide it among the roses. Now, if you had covered it up in a nest of cabbages, when you came to pick it out again you could not have told for the life of you which head was yours. Stick to the roses, old boy, every time."

In the Imperial Dictionary the word "tarn" is thus defined:

"A small mountain, lake or pool." The improper use of the comma after mountain makes tarn signify three things: 1st, a mountain; 2d, a lake, and 3d, a pool; instead of simply a mountain-lake or pool.

We should not be too hard on Governor Blackburn. There are some good points about the old humanitarian, after all. For instance, he is doing all he can to abate the colored nuisance, by rendering it ridiculous.—[Lebanon Standard.]

The New York Sun makes the following timely remarks: From the days of Madison to the election of Garfield, it always happened that the political party which carried a majority of the House of Representatives in the middle of a Presidential term elected the President two years afterward. This old rule was for the first time reversed in 1880. The democrats carried a majority of the House in 1878 and according to the precedents of the previous seventy years, they should have elected Hancock to the Presidency in 1880. Why did they fail? Prominent democrats in the South had profited by the great fraud which deprived Mr. Tilden of the office to which he was elected. The party had been broken into factions, some of which formed alliances with the republicans. The people did not reap the promised fruits of democratic victories; and in the heat of the contest of 1880, a portion of the New York democrats failed to do their duty. Thus Garfield was elected. The democrats have now chosen a large majority of the next House. Do they hope to revive the old rule and secure the Presidency in the coming campaign? In other words, will they so act as to hold what they gained by the tidal wave victories of last fall? New York shared more conspicuously in those victories than any other State. The result of the next Presidential struggle will turn largely upon the course pursued by her democracy.

The republican distillers of Anderson county have petitioned their party in Congress to support the extension of the whiskey period without further amendments. "This is not a political measure," say they, "but by the combination of your actions you lead us to believe that it is, and why you should take such arbitrary action against one of the main sources of revenue to the Government, and to the prospective terrible disaster to so many private individuals scattered all over the United States, we are unable to see, especially in the face of the fact that the Government loses nothing by the extension, and the whiskey interest feels that some favorable consideration is due it." We advise them to make peace with John D. White and all will be well.

JUDGE GEO. N. BROWN has sent a request to the Governor for State troops to protect those miserable creatures, Neal and Craft, from death by mob violence, and he has issued orders calling out the entire Second Regiment and the two Louisville companies to accompany them to Grayson. While it is right and proper that the authorities should prepare for any emergency, we'll wager that a second attempt to take the prisoners from the soldiers by force will not be made. The mob which attacked them at Ashland had no idea that they would be fired upon, else the first attempt would not have materialized. No set of men are fools enough to rush into the jaws of death and lose their lives in such a cause as that.

ACCORDING to the Auditor's report sixty Kentucky counties drew more from the State Treasury last year than they put in, which causes the Louisville Post to say that there are too many counties in the State, (117); but not too many for the desire of those aspiring citizens who strive to hold county offices. New York, the Empire State, with 5,000,000 people and a larger area than Kentucky, has only 60 counties, while this State has twice that number. Thus the number of public offices is vastly multiplied, with not enough additional advantage to the public to compensate the increased expense.

EVER since Garfield's remains were lain away in the Cleveland Cemetery, the government has had 12 soldiers and a Lieutenant to guard the vault at a cost of $281 per month, amounting now to $4,496. Considering that it is the duty of the Cemetery authorities to have the remains watched, if there is danger of them being stolen, the person who ordered the detachment there should show cause why he did so.

JUDGE BLACK in an argument before the House Judiciary Committee raised the question of constitutionality on the bill now before Congress to suppress polygamy in Utah, arguing that it is not for Congress to legislate in relation to marriage in the Territories, but for the local self government to do so. It is not thought that the bill will be acted on by this Congress.

The Cincinnati Opera Festival is an unqualified success. The city is full of people and over 5,000 persons nightly assemble to listen to the "mocking birds."

AN ensilage congress is now in session in New York and the farmers are taking much interest in it. The French method of preserving fodder by ensilage or continued pressure, is gaining ground in this country and has already proved a great saving. The cost of fodder for cattle during the lengthy winter season is so great that the handsome profits of the mild months, when the pastures are available, are seriously eaten into. Through the use of silos, fodder is not alone stored at a time when it is exceedingly cheap, but it suffers little deterioration throughout the winter and is served to the animals almost as fresh and tender and juicy as when first brought in green from the fields. Our farmers are slowly realizing the value of this system, already thoroughly established in France, and when they have learned how cheaply a capacious silo can be built its adoption will be general.

JOHNIE JUMP UP WHITE has been again asserting himself. His latest effort is to have the desks of the members of Congress taken away and an arm-chair with a drawer for writing material and a leaf fixed to one side to write on. His reason for wishing the change is that the present seats are too comfortable and are in a great measure responsible for a large amount of wasted time of Congress. John D. should go a step further and demand that the members be made to stand up during session and on one foot at that. He could make a big reputation if it becomes a law for being that kind of a fowl, which is remarkable for the length of time it can thus stand he would soon be a "bigger man than old Grant."

THE interesting news is afloat that real estate is looking up in Jerusalem and that buildings are going on actively there, sixty-three houses of modern style now being under construction and rents are on the rise. Not only has the population of Jerusalem increased during the year, but that of Jaffa and Hebron, the chief gain being and influx of Russian Jews, fleeing from persecution. "Judas for the Jews" may soon become a rallying cry. Jaffa contains nearly 20,000 people; but the Consul regrets that most of these have not yet been educated up to the best use of the pocket banknote.

THE "Bucket Shops," which are establishments where men gamble in grain futures, on being informed by the Western Union Telegraph Co., that they would furnish them no more quotations after a certain date, brought a test suit against it and got first blood by receiving a temporary restraining order and enjoining it from removing the ticker in the plaintiff's place of business, or turning the switch connecting it with the defendant's printing office, until upon a trial of the case upon its merits an opportunity shall be afforded to the plaintiff of proving the legality of his business.

AN Illinois paper says that Senator Cullum is in the prime of life, vigorous, active and aggressive. He will be heard from in the Senate, and, says an admirer, will dispute with any man who assumes to control the politics of Illinois the right to do so. He will have his say and his share of the patronage. It is probable that he will resign the Governorship about the 1st of February, and he will make no appointments in the meantime, leaving that responsibility to Governor Hamilton.

REPRESENTATIVE MILLER, of the Ohio Legislature, is the bad man from Bitter Creek. He not only went into the body the other day as drunk as a loon but threatened to kill the speaker when he remonstrated with him for his boisterousness. An attempt is being made to withhold his per diem but it ought not to succeed. Mr. Miller should not get drunk, but if he chooses to kill the speaker, perhaps that sin might be forgiven him.

THE law prohibiting miscegenation in force in certain States has been decided by the Supreme Court not to be contrary to the Fourteenth amendment or the Civil Rights Bill, because the penalty attaches alike to white and black, without distinction. The white man or woman who wants to marry a negro had better, therefore, ship for some other seaport.

It is certainly a well merited compliment to Gen. Favette Hewitt, that no person has yet appeared to contest the question of his second election. He makes a capital officer and deserves to be given a second term with opposition.

THE law to punish wife-beaters with stripes well laid on their naked backs has just gone into effect in Maryland, and at Baltimore this week Charles Foote was let off with the light penalty of seven lashes.

The suggestion to limit the number of barrooms and sell licenses to the highest bidders finds favor in Missouri where there is now a bar to every three hundred of the population.

KELLOGG goes out of the Senate on March 4th, but Thomas M. Bowen, another carpet-bagger of the same stripe, comes in from Colorado. Bowen was formerly a carpet-bagger in Arkansas, where he was notorious during the period of reconstruction. He was a candidate for the Senate against Dorsey in 1873. There were only a few democrats then in the Legislature, but the friends of Mr. Garland, the present Senator from Arkansas, did not hesitate to vote for Dorsey as a man vastly to be preferred to Bowen. That fact is, perhaps, the strongest commentary that could be made on the standing of the new Senator. After his defeat in Arkansas, Bowen migrated to Colorado, where, as a Judge, he maintained the reputation which he had carried with him. His decisions in certain important mining cases are familiar to the people of that State.

THE Supreme Court has overruled the decision of the Fayette Circuit Court and the Kentucky Court of Appeals in the case of the negro Bush, charged with the murder of Miss Van Meter, and he will have a new trial. The murder occurred about four years ago and since that time Bush has been twice sentenced to be hung. The first verdict was set aside by the U. S. District Court because the grand jury had been selected exclusively from whites by virtue of a State law which is contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment, and the Supreme Court set aside the second for the same reason. The Fayette people are justly indignant that the murderer should go unpunished so long by quibbles of the law, and a mob spirit would not be hard to excite.

A BOSTON paper says that the next presidential election will not be carried upon promises, but upon performance. The people are bent on having reform in the civil service—national, State and municipal—as the first condition of purer politics, better administration and higher statesmanship. And they will break to pieces any party that stands in the way of their purpose. The republican party has shown that in the last twenty years it has stood in their way and there fore ought to be broken to pieces.

IT comes from a well-informed source in Washington that Blackburn will not, as has been supposed by some, carry the fight with Carlisle for Speakership of the Forty-eighth Congress to the point of defeating his rival if he can not be elected himself. An amicable arrangement is more probable. Capt. Blackburn evidently appreciates the feelings of the Kentucky people.

IT was Judge C. E. Kincaid who succeeded to the city editorship of the Courier-Journal and not E. Polk Johnson, who only held the position temporarily and who has a much better position on the paper. Judge Kincaid has shown a decided adaptability in journalism and we are sure he will succeed in his present difficult place to fill.

WHILE we prefer Col. Thomas L. Jones for Governor, we are free to say that Judge Owsley, by his courteous canvass, is commending himself to the respect of the people of Kentucky.—[Covington Commonwealth. Yes, he is the proper man for the place and we would be glad if you would reconsider and give him your support.

WHAT the United States can possibly want with the house in which Lincoln was born is passed finding out; yet a congressional committee has recommended an appropriation of $12,000 to buy it. This seems to be carrying a silly sentiment considerably too far.

STATE TREASURER VINCENT of Alabama has decamped and his accounts show a deficit of $227,000. A thief at heart no doubt he speculated in cotton futures and lived like a lord. He imitated Polk quite well and we hope his end will be like his.

THE Courier-Journal publishes the rosters of the companies of State Guards that will go to protect Neal and Craft from the Boyd county savages. As is usual, the list shows more officers than privates. Col. Allen will be in command again.

FERRY has not been able to make his calling an election sure for the Michigan Senatorship yet, but he holds his own so well that his opponents can do nothing. The balloting has now lasted over two weeks.

THE Mt. Sterling Sentinel, enlarged and improved, is one of the best local papers we know of. Its advertising patronage is second to that of no other weekly in the State, which shows that to be a paying institution.

THE old woman who pulled down her toll-gate pole and demanded pay for Sheridan's whole army is still living in Virginia, though she has gotten too old to attend to the gate any more.

MCGOFFIN county has also endorsed Col. T. L. Jones for Governor and still Judge Owsley is ahead.

It is repeatedly the case that from a third to a half of the Senators and the same proportion of Representatives, fail to answer when their names are called on important questions. It is evident that the practice of deserting their posts, pairing off and dodging votes has grown into a flagrant abuse on the part of both Senators and Representatives.—[New York Herald. Yesterday's report shows that one hundred Congressmen were absent. They should be made to hear from the people, who elected them to stay at their posts and represent their interests.

ONE paper in Cincinnati appears to be doing all it can to injure the Opera Festival. We refer to the News, which is publishing daily, wood cuts of the singers that make them look like veritable he and she devils. Of course many will be frightened by the terrible caricatures from attending the show, which Porkopolis prides herself cannot be beaten in this or any other world.

KELLER, of the Carlisle Mercury, denies the rumor that he is a candidate for the Legislature and adds "if there ever was a man cured of seeking places at the hands of the dear people, it is your humble servant. He may be classed among the "crushed politicians."

THE New York General Assembly pays $3 a day to its chaplain for prayers. This is a reckless expenditure of money. Why is it not saved and given to the poor? Boss Kelly, for instance.

A dispatch from Washington says the whisky bond extension bill is sure to pass as soon as it is reached. In the meantime, whisky men are failing in various parts of the country, and a leading republican Congressman says "let 'em fail."

The people of Cincinnati are now in speaking communication with one hundred and thirty cities and villages within a radius of seventy-five miles. The Telephone would be a big thing if the Western Union Telegraph Co. did not own a controlling interest.

The Commonwealth entered suit in the Franklin Circuit Court against delinquent railroads for the taxes of 1882. The roads sued are the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific, Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern and the Louisville & Nashville & Great Southern.

Capt. George Everett, State Superintendent of convict labor on the Kentucky Central extension, was shot and killed near Winchester Tuesday. Everett had drawn his pistol in a quarrel with a negro workman, who grabbed the weapon, and as they struggled for its possession it was discharged with the above result.

A monster cattle company has been organized in New York city to operate in New Mexico. The organization is to be known as the United States Cattle Company. The capital stock has been fixed at $2,500,000 divided into 25,000 shares. A large amount of land has been secured, amounting to 700,000 acres of well grassed and well watered land. It is already stocked with 20,000 head of cattle.

The New York Commercial Bulletin prints a tabulated statement of the earnings of the fire insurance companies of that city, that of the 66 companies reporting, thirty succeeded in making their premiums pay losses and expenses (most of them barely doing this) and thirty-six came out at the end of the year in a way which proves conclusively that either rates are too low, expenses too high, or management lacking somewhere in the elements essential to successful underwriting.

A special from Grayson says: The sensational report started by a Lexington crank that a mob of 1,500 men had been formed in this county to attack the soldiers and hang Neal and Craft, is the merest bomb. No mob has been formed in or near this county and my word for it, there will be no such trouble. Such idle reports do not only injure this section, but do the State incalculable injury. There is a disposition here to accord Neal and Craft a fair trial, and believe that they will be so treated.

The alarm in Wilkesbarre, Pa., over the caving in of an old mine under the city continues, and the situation for some of the inhabitants appears to be really disastrous. Their water supply is cut off; they dare not light fires, lest their house be burned by the overturning of stoves in case of a further settling of the ground; they are obliged to keep watch during the night in order they may have warning in time to escape if more of the roof of the mine should give way, and their children dare not attend one of the public school which stands in a precarious position.

Beck and Dawes had a lively little tilt during the debate in the Senate on the tariff bill. Dawes claimed that in opposing the bill Mr. Beck was working in the interest of foreign manufacturers. Beck replied: "I flatly contradict the statement, it is untrue." "It is vain," said Mr. Dawes, "to deny the fact." "The statement of the Senator," responded Beck, "I again pronounce utterly untrue." Dawes said he did not impugn the Senator's motives, but some how the interest of the people abroad are benefited by his efforts. "The Senator," concluded Beck, "can not get out of the suggestion that I am a knave by saying I am a fool."

The Chesapeake and Ohio elevator, now being built at Newport News, will hold 1,500,000 bushels of wheat. The elevator building is to be 400 feet long by 100 feet wide and 156 feet high. The foundation consists of 2,500 piles driven in clusters of nine piles each, driven 20 feet in the ground, and sawed off level at high-water mark. The piles are capped with oak timber and filled in between them by grouting to the level of the oak caps, and on this foundation the cornerstone was laid on 17th instant. There are to be 264 tiers of stone nine feet high and six feet six inches at the base, on which the walls of the building will rest. The walls will be constructed by laying two inch planks flat one piece upon another, and the bins will be constructed in the same manner.
